Frazier, Faught and Tierney Lead Scoring Drive for Marion After Dull First Quarter.

By CHARLES HOOTELIN
Marion Star sports writer

MOVING away fast from a first quarter that was marked with mediocrity, the Harding High Presidents took the sting out of the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets, 38 to 26, in a North Central Ohio league basketball game at the Shovel gymnasium last night.

The victory, Harding's fourteenth in 15 games, was the second scored over the Mt. Vernon quintet this season. Coach Dewey N. Bohrer's quintet alternately trailed and led during the first period but emerged with a 11 to 8 lead as the whistle ended the quarter. The Presidents added two points to their lead in the second period to hold the big end of a 19 to 14 score at the half. Continuing to

The team grabbed an initial lead and continued to pile up points as the game progressed. Williams was the leading scorer with three goals and three assists with Jeffery and Ault each totaling six points. Taylor worked under both ends of offensive and defensive baskets but opposing players foiled him. Fourteen Harding players saw action at some time during the game. The box score follows:

ICKES ASSAILED HOOVER FEARS

Tells Chicago Audience Former President Has 'Confirmed State of Jitters'

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes in an address prepared for delivery before the Union Wage Club said today that former President Herbert Hoover has a confirmed state of jitters.

"Some men tremble occasionally for the safety of our Institutus, but he has developed a chronicague about them," said the cabinet member.

Tell of Former Optimism

"Three years ago Mr. Hoover's refrain was that prosperity was just around the corner."

Now he is just as certain that collapse is just around the corner. He said the former President, who in recent weeks criticized his successor publicly, was laboring with all his might to reestablish in the minds of the American people that state of fear in which he left them.

The shakiest and most of big business which he identified as the American Liberty League, Alfred P. Sloan Jr. and the du Ponts, Delaware Industrialists, shamed Secretary Ickes into silence.

Plain Liberty League

He called the Liberty League an interesting alias chosen by big business in a campaign against President Roosevelt.

Oil Sloan Secretary Ickes said.

Despite the muted initiative capacity and intelligence of Mr. Sloan and his ilk, Detroit was one of the hardest hit cities in the country during the depression.

KETTERING WINS HIGHEST AWARD

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Research engineers and not the bankers or economists today hold the key to American prosperity. Charles F. Kettering, vice president of the General Motors Corp. told members of five engineering societies which gave him the Washington award last night for accomplishments which preeminently promote the happiness, comfort and well-being of humanity.

The depression we are told cost billions of dollars. Kettering said And yet a billion dollars a year would keep 800 or 800 research laboratories going provided you could get the men.

If I had enough trained men to run that many laboratories for three or four years the banks would have all their money out in loans and there would be no unemployment. We would have help wanted on every factory door in America he said.

CANADA FACES RUM PROBLEM

Bogeying and Hijacking Accuses Move from U. S. To Area North of Border.

By International News Service
GORDON ROBERTS

For years, hijacking, long a favorite method of obtaining cheap rum stocks in the United States during Prohibition era, has made its appearance in this province, with American liquor as the bait. American bootleggers, unable to import their stocks by regular mail, close patrol maintained by Canadian Mounted Police across Lower St. Lawrence River, a region where their stuff can be taken, by rail and boat, much cheaper than to lower the border owing to lower costs.

But it is a ready market for U. S. rum in this province, as a FrenchCanadian dearly loves his rum. He kicks at paying an extra 50¢ a gallon for alcohol, bootleggers accordingly supplying him at a low cost.

Two days ago, one contracted with an American outfit for a load of rum to be run across the border, to be paid off at a remote spot. A rival cut him off, plane to hijack it but was foiled. In turn, he turned to hijacking plans. They planned drastic revenge. This conduct of indecisive police that the experts were coming in. The bootleggers argued that while they might be beaten from the other gang's interests, they would be able to stand on their territory.

Unfortunately, the second gang failed to break the liquor, which came into the hands of police. Bootlegging is reported rampant among bootleggers in the province, parallel to those in U. S. may result. One big obstacle to this is that Canadian justice is tougher to defeat.

Gallstone.
Now comes the announcement of a new surgical method of dealing gallstones and gall bladder out. The new operation has a dangerous name. It is called "cholecystectomy." Don't try pronouncing the word—it might rip your jaw!

In the procedure the gall bladder is cut out by destroying its electric current of low voltage. It is hoped that by this system if proven good, the stay in hospital will be shortened and avoiding complications prevented.

Gallstone is one of the most prevalent of all the surgical cases. It is especially common in cases of middle age. As a rule, except fair complexion and over-weight, more prone to develop them.

Actual cause of gallstones is unknown. But many theories have been advanced. For example, some believe stones are formed in the bladder because of infection. Others attribute the formation to disturbance in metabolism, or power of the body to use the food consumed. Faulty diets, especially if deficient in certain vitamins play an important role in the development of gallstones.

He suffers complaints of discomfort and digestive distress shortly after meals. As a rule, flatulence, excessive gas formation, sour taste, nausea and vomiting are additional symptoms. These may persist, or appear at periodic intervals.

The pain may or may not be confined to the gall bladder area. Often it radiates from the abdomen to the chest and right shoulder. The pain may be mild, or so severe as to require the administration of an opiate.

Too many believe that a "pill," or other medicines of some sort, will dissolve gallstones. As a matter of fact, many of the so-called gallbladder medicines merely serve to diminish the pain and discomfort. Permanent cure is only possible by surgical removal of the stones and sometimes drainage of the gall bladder.

It is dangerous to neglect gallstones. If you are subject to repeated attacks of pain and other symptoms, bear in mind that an attack of this sort may lead to rupture of the gall bladder. This is a serious condition and requires immediate operation.

Let me remind you that in some instances gallstones cause no pain. But the patient suffers from marked digestive disturbances and distress, which are often thought to be due to other causes. Do not confuse inflammation of the gall bladder with gallstones. "Calculus" is the medical name for inflammation of the gall bladder. This condition doesn't demand operation. In every case, in time, insurance complete relief is obtained by diet. Your doctor will advise you.

Answers to Health Questions

A.S.—I am a young man of 21 and in good health with one exception. I am troubled with shaking hands and in some instances it affects my head, particularly when out in a crowd. What would cause this nervous condition? It is not due to an anxiety complex, because I love to go out among my friends but am embarrassed because of this shyness.

A—Try to overcome the underlying nervousness first of all. See your doctor for examination and advice. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Men Who May Be Nominated

One of a Series on Republican Presidential Possibilities

Alfred M. Landon, whose Kansas administration is cited by supporters as a qualification for the presidency, gives close study to financial problems in his Topeka office. Observers considered his recent address at a Republican rally as a bid for the G. O. P. nomination.

The political background of the candidates mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination are discussed in a series of six articles.

By KIRKE SIMPSON
By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—When Alfred Moshman Landon twice resisted Democratic vote inundations to seize and retain the governorship of Kansas, his place among 1936 Republican presidential nomination possibilities was assured.

The "grand old party" had too few such cases in '32 and '34 for the "Kansas budget balancer" to be overlooked.

Until very recently, Gov. Landon did nothing obviously to seek party honors at Cleveland in June. His friends can a "sell Landon" boom, but the government stuck to state affairs.

He was a mystery man until his speech in Topeka at the Kansas day celebration January 20 this year had the effect of tossing his hat into the Republican nomination ring, however silent as to his personal ambitions Landon remained.

In that speech, dealing almost wholly with national issues, he definitely joined the chorus of Republican attack upon the Roosevelt "new deal" as delaying the return of prosperity by mismanagement and waste.

His call for "better housekeeping" in Washington for "revival of confidence in national credit, in soundness of the dollar, in the government at Washington" to bring "a flood tide of recovery" had the look of a Landon platform and was so constructed. It was regarded as an application of Landon's "pay-as-you-go" policy to the national scene.

DAYTON, O., Feb. 26—Stephen A. Day, a son of William R. Day's father was secretary of state under President McKinley.

Day said he had obtained nominating papers for delegates to the Republican convention from the secretary of state and would enter states of delegate candidates in Ohio and several midwestern states.

Over the Dam.

Wide disagreement exists on the amount of permission implied in the Wilson dam decision for further pursuance of the government's controversial power policy. On the face of the supreme court's opinion there is nothing which gives even the faintest blessing to the kind of social experimentation illustrated by TVA. Yet experimenters are claiming boldly that they have a clear track ahead. They will proceed at full speed.

The fact is they intend to go ahead whether the track is clear or not. They expected the supreme court to hinder them in the Wilson dam decision. When the court gave a narrow interpretation on the case and ignored the question of policy which was entailed they saw an opportunity to increase their momentum to a point where interference simply would not be practical.

It may be several years before the utility industry can bring a case to the court which will require an opinion on the practicality of the TVA type of project. It will be even longer before the general public will be able to make a decision on the practical issue entailed in expenditure of millions of dollars for an experiment in social benefits.

By that time the money will have been spent, dams will have been completed, private investments diminished, populations shifted and the whole foundation of the experiment put into place. It will not matter what the supreme court might decide to say about the legality of actions which never can be recalled. Neither will it matter what the people may think about spending money which has been spent. Like gold devaluation the action will be complete by the time it reaches the court. Likewise the court may find nothing to do but admit there is nothing which could be done. Congress alone can determine the vital matter of public policy entailed before further exercise of the new deal power tools and congress has no one willing to do anything which might run away a single vote.

Handicapped.

Popular interest in Postmaster General Farley seems to increase in direct ratio to the frequency of his public appearances. But it is not the kind of interest which makes Mr. Farley a helpful campaign factor.

Despite the fact Mr. Farley has been reading some excellent speeches he is handicapped severely by an impression that he is out of place on a speaking platform. His desire to belong in the managerial routine. He is an object of curiosity.

That is possibly unfair to Mr. Farley. But he has devoted himself so frankly and so energetically to the practical side of politics that it seems strange to hear him talking like an embryonic statesman.

His words don't quite convince. Reading them and hearing them his countrymen wonder to what extent they belong to Mr. Farley and to what extent they are uttered by him as a kind of political phonograph. He is under a disadvantage.

The Democratic party is under a worse disadvantage. In President Roosevelt it has a capable spokesman. But it has no other spokesman who can compare with Mr. Roosevelt. When it is considered that Mr. Farley stands No. 2 in the speaking list the extent and weight of Mr. Roosevelt's burden in the campaign are both plain.

Waiting To See.

The federal income tax which is supposed to produce approximately a billion and a half dollars for the treasury when the money is counted after March 15 may bring in more or less than that optimistic estimate. Thereon will hang a tale.

If the income tax is more productive than experts believe it will be the administration will be inclined to go easy on new taxes. If it happens to be less productive the tendency will be toward heavier taxes. It's a good guess that nothing will be done until after March 15.

The administration experts believe that in the next fiscal year almost two billion dollars will be collected from income taxes. They have based their estimate on what they previously had guessed as the total for the current year. If it turns out to be higher than their guess next year's estimate will have to be revised.

That is the science of budget making reduced to simple routine. First you make a guess. Then you make a second guess on the first guess. Then you wait to see how far wrong both guesses were.

At the present time Mr. Farley is waiting to see. It's a routine after March 15. We'll see in May if it's true. Then we'll see if the experts are wrong and all the rest of the cast. It's going to take a lot of time, but it's the right time now.

In Session

The fact is the government is already in session and can't wait in session. The only thing that can be done is to wait and hope that it gets on or stays on even still. But it gets on or stays on only when it's adjourned.

There is a lot of members of Congress who could get together in one of their special areas. They're in a large majority who have many things against Ohio.

Is it possible for a state government to operate on less than $100,000? It's indicated in the appropriate bill that it passed by the house and a rate. Or we'll have to return soon to it?

According to critics of TVA, the appropriations of certain parts of certain appropriations there is no room for any for Ohio to have a rent in the department which were affected. It's reasonable to suppose that either does not make the law.

It is an interesting situation. If Ohio cannot reduce its electric rate in condition which is not to be expected. A government will not be able to do it than that would be the end of the crackling and crackling. The state of Alaska thirty years ago, the state government does not do it, but it simply doesn't want to contract. Representatives of the state with inquiring minds about it are wrong.

Not Through Trying

Some time in the early days of persons in the eastern part of the United States will look skyward at the new Zeppelin successor to the old Graf Zeppelin. The ship will be making its first flight inaugurating transatlantic air mail.

Few persons in the United States will be able to do what they say they are going to do with the new airship. Dr. Hugo Eckener's first flight with the Graf Zeppelin proved that the airship has not been built in wholly by its failure in France, Germany and the United States.

The Germans will they will establish scheduled services between their country and South America and they did. They are guardians of a tradition of dependability. Even Americans who have every reason to be skeptical of multiple have implicit confidence in the same type of ship when built and operated by Germans.

Why they ask can Americans do the same thing? The question has many answers most of them technical. It may have a reply which is conclusive and short. American men and will build good airships and operate them. It hasn't been popular to make that reply but with the result of interest caused by Germany's new ship it is bound to be made again. Rep. Dow Butler of Akron potential home of the airship industry already has prepared a bill calling for construction of a dirigible ship a metal hull ship and experiments with other types of dirigibles. The United States apparently isn't through trying yet.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Feb. 26, 1926.

An announcement that attorney for Harry Dunn in a case of taking part in the C. I. A. M. messenger spy would ask for a new trial was made following the discovery that a member of the jury which convicted Dunn was a deputy sheriff and had received pay for returning men here of the robbery gang from Columbus to Marion. Alfred Dutton, one of the attorneys for Dunn charged a mistake when he found that Harry Lewis a member of the jury was also a deputy sheriff and that he had aided in returning the prisoners to Marion. Lewis was seated on the jury after the regular panel had been exhausted and questioned by attorneys did not reveal his connection with the sheriff's office.

Workmen were busy repairing damage to electric light and telephone wires and clearing the streets of twisted masses of broken limbs following a gale which whipped through Marion for several hours during the night.

Marion broke into the national news when it was learned that a maniac sniper who had terrorized Omaha, Neb., often used the alias of Frank Johnson and gave his address as Marion, O.

Indications that a solution was near in the Troy, O., murder of Mrs. Frances Dinko Neblett, Ohio State University graduate, were seen in the arrangements made by County Prosecutor L. E. Harvey to release the Miami county grand jury to consider the case.

He believed he had been tainted by a detective. On destroying the Pauline shoe store and the leather leather shop in Upper Sandusky with a loss estimated at $8,000.

It was Saturday, Feb. 26, 1916.

Despite a terrible blizzard and the assistance of thousands of fresh troops the German force under the Crown Prince were forced to retire to their former position in the stiff resistance offered by the French forces of Verdun.

Renewal of battle on the part of the German fleet was expected following a visit of Kaiser Wilhelm to the Wilhelmshaven naval base. British naval forces were anticipating a dash of the German fleet into the North Sea coincident with the onset of the land forces on the French front at Verdun.

President Speaks On Religious Freedom

Brotherhood Day Address Illustrates Proper Use of Moral Influence of Chief Executive.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—An excellent illustration of the proper use of the moral influence of the President of the United States has just been given in a radio address delivered by Mr. Roosevelt.

It was in connection with the celebration of Brotherhood day under the auspices of the National Conference of Jews and Christians. Mr. Roosevelt had been criticized for not making direct representations to the governments of Mexico and Germany because of the persecution of Catholics and Jews respectively, in those countries. The President felt that to do so would be interfering in the internal concerns of foreign nations.

Put when the opportunity came as it did on Sunday last to speak in the abstract about religious freedom Sir Poore felt in unmistakable terms outlined what he believes to be the overwhelming element of the American people. Some time ago Wilson used to refer to an "implausible" rather than explicit discussion of a paramount issue. Thus Mr. Roosevelt did not have to mention concrete instances of religious persecution to enable his listeners throughout the world to apply what he said to particular areas of the earth where religious persecution in its height. From the viewpoint of diplomatic relations the President presented the Americans but informally he left no doubt about the American point of view.

Nor did the President confine himself to interference with religious worship. He spoke forcefully about the tendency to break down faith so noticeable in the Hindu Communist attitude toward the Hindu fundamentals of the past. Mr. Roosevelt said, for instance:

"It is not your specific faith or mine that is being called into question—but all faith. Religion in wide areas of the earth is being confronted with irrationalism. That threat is that you and I must reach across the lines between our two clashing hands and make common cause. To do so will do credit to the best of our religious tradition."

What practical value has such a speech? It will be naked and how can it do any good when it is presumably never printed in Germany or Russia because of press censorship? The simple answer is that world opinion is a powerful little tool when once mobilized in a common cause. Unfortunately as yet world opinion on the subject of religious freedom is not by no means reached the stage of organized expression. The language of hate is still spoken and acted upon in different parts of the world even in some areas outside of Germany and Russia little by little as the value of international friendships becomes once more a factor considered by awakening peoples in the solving of their own domestic policies or the crusade for a return of civilized behavior taken root and affects the attitude of governments again.

Mr. Roosevelt's address may be set down as a truly great utterance—one of the best expositions of American thought and principle that has been made by any chief executive of the American people. Long after the hotly contested policies of his administration have been forgotten the words of tolerance in Franklin Roosevelt's appeal for faith and religious freedom will be remembered. All through the depression as more hearts have despaired. They have been groping—unconsciously perhaps but none the less painfully—for the truth that is expressed by the President in these lines:

"No greater thing could come to our land today than a revival of the spirit of religion—a spirit that would sweep through the homes of the nation and stir the hearts of men and women of all faiths to a realization of their belief in God and their dedication to his will for themselves and for their world. I doubt if there is any one for whom this is true.

Conflicting reports to a Senate committee last year recommending the payment of those reparations are returned by the Adams view point rejected by congress they will look bad and feel worse. At any rate senators are having $23,000,000 worth of fun watching the corner negotiations.

The corner controversy also has been joined here conspicuously into the White House itself. There

President Roosevelt is supposed to have looked at the quandary and observed: Well, well, from that and other subsequent expressions the advocates of the Adams report the President favored re-

Conflicting announcements which have been made about a new highway bill securely reflect the complete misunderstanding under which the highway bill was passed.

For instance several intriguing officials pointed out in a recent conference with the President.

They announced the President agreed to back a bill carrying $250,000,000 to $400,000,000 annual.

Next day the President said no decision had been reached.

The third day one of the officials amended the appropriation by saying the appropriation for the first year would be no more than $100,000 for slums clearance.

The second and third day an announcements appear to have been the correct ones. For several good and sufficient reasons the President apparently is against any such extensive housing program as Senator Wagner has been talking about. However no announcement will be issued to that effect.

County Farm Agent Tests Seed Corn Samples Here

The severe weather of last winter has materially reduced the supply of seed corn available this year to farmers. The extent will be determined by germination tests being conducted this week by the offices of County Agent L. Anderson. He said tests made by what is known as the "soil test" system, comes with reports from farmers that farmers fear shortage of fertile grain seeds will force the price of corn upward.

TRIPLETS' MOTHER KILLS HER HUSBAND

By The Associated Press

YORK, Pa., Feb. 26.—Simon Wachinger, whose terrified triplet children had fled six miles through snow and slush of back country roads to tell that their mother had killed their father, was found shot to death in the second floor of his farm home yesterday.

The children, two girls and a boy, are 12 years old.

"I just shot your father, go back to sleep," the boy, James said his mother told him when he was awakened by noise in the night.

The boy was sleeping in the same room with his father. This morning he found his father dead in bed, the pillow blood-soaked. He aroused his sisters and they fled to the home of their grandfather, A. L. Kunkle of Lashburn.

DEATH SOUGHT IN DAD KILLING

fathers, and not murder them in cold blood.

"It was not a girl afflicted with temporary insanity but a cold-blooded murderer who killed that old man when he attempted to restrict her activities a little," Cooper pleaded.

"Did you hear that girl and her mother testify that time and again that brute sought improper relations with her, and kept her in morbid fear of his sexual advances?"

"Cooper pleaded with the jury 'not to send her to the electric chair or to a lifetime of hell in the state penitentiary' but to 'let her return to the sand hills of northern Caddo county with her mother and small brothers and sisters.'

Judge Linn instructed the jurors if they found the defendant guilty they must sentence her to death or life imprisonment.

The prosecution struck at the defense contention the girl temporarily was insane last Dec. 21 when she shot her father Eddie H. Willis as he lay in bed at his farm home near Eddyville, Okla.

Saru Smith, a neighbor testified the girl's mother Mrs. Zona Wall had said Emma did not want to tell the neighbors about the shooting. He told the jury, the mother aid the girl proposed just burying the father's body on the farm.

Ten neighbors in all appeared today to testify for the prosecution that they had never seen Willis beat or abuse his family.

Boy Scouts Find Camp John A. Owens As Interesting in Winter As in Summer

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles dealing with Boy Scout activities being published in THE STAR preceding the annual financial campaign which opens next week.

Life at Scout Camp John A. Owens south of Marion is just as interesting if not quite so comfortable in winter as summer in the opinion of hundreds of Boy Scouts who have spent weekends there.

Camping "the calendar" has come to be the slogan of the boys. Scarce a weekend passes that some troop is not billeted at the ledge and the place rarely buzzes with activity. The coming week end will find Troop 24 made up of boys from the Marion County Children's Home and Scouting or Normal Foreman occupying the camp.

Scouting was conceived in the out-of-doors and a large part of boy scout training is an out-door experience where boys may learn to light a fire and cook their own meals track and trail through the woods and learn the stars, trees and wild animals in the opinion of Clifford M. Howser camping chairman and the boys agree.

To Be Game Refuge

Interest always in the conservation of a deer life the enthusiasm has increased with the placing of a number of rabbits and other animals at the camp in anticipation of some day having the added honor of being known as a game preserve.

Nothing in the way of lettuce or other green food stuff in his menu he's always excepts the eve of the Boy Scout planning a week end at the camp during the winter period and it's a meeting of a banquet for the members when the troop arrives to one of the first activities is to feed the animals.

The ledge itself is the answer to a boy's dream of a place to meet, plan hikes, work out ideas and see the other fellow's ideas but with the increase in membership the facilities are inadequate to care for the number of boys who want to camp the camping committee reports. It is essential that steps be taken to develop additional facilities to meet this demand. Chairman Howser says:

A total of 60 scouts camped at Camp John A. Owens during the year just ended. Chairman Howser's report shows Troop No. 9 of Marion spent five days at the camp during the last Christmas vacation and last year 130 scouts used the camp for overnight periods on weekends during the fall and winter months. A total of 3 different Scouts spent a week or more at the camp. This number does not include 58 Scouts who strictly business and good business to borrow here when ever you need money.

Scenes such as the one shown above are everyday occurrences at Camp John A. Owens, where Boy Scouts enjoy outdoor life and carry on a development program in leadership, sportsmanship and learning to do by doing."

strengthening the moral and spiritual the program.

Accepted Program

Camping is America's accepted program for boy and troop camping is the accepted method of the Boy Scouts of America. Troop camping requires more of the troop leadership than finding boys away to some place. That camp and realizing he is the spokesman of Camp John A. Owens meet the program more than half way by providing on the scout reservation equipment, facilities and trained camping room clerks so the boys may camp safely and enjoy the fun of camping without all the detail and responsibilities that must be met.

BUFFALO BILL A SPY IN DIXIE

Union Daughters of Confederacy in Arms Over Proposal for Statue in Texas.

By The Associated Press
DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 25.—The Union Daughters of the Confederacy, dubbing famed old Buffalo Bill a "Union spy," sent out an urgent telegram to squelch any and all talk of honoring his memory at the Texas Centennial exposition.

Members announced a meeting would be held Friday to protest against the possible erection here of a duplicate of the Civil War statue in Cody, Wyo.

The "spy" activities of Buffalo Bill, whose real name was William Cody, and whose body now lies buried atop Mt. Lookout in Colorado, were blamed to his recent uttering duties as a mounted agent for the Union armies after the south's secession. His son says he wore no uniform or plumed hat.

Dr. Robert Janssen of Chicago, Texas centennial art director, touched off the U. S. D. protest when he announced a reproduction of the statue—Buffalo Bill astride a rearing horse—would be considered for the exposition grounds.

"Buffalo Bill is all right in his place," said Mrs. J. C. Turner, president of the Bonnie Blue Chapter.

"But his place is not in a southern place of the exposition, the primary purpose of which is to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our state and pay tribute to its history and the heroes who made it."

"Instead of these heroes we
